ercol Collection Windsor chair

True to our founder's vision, while moving with the times. Always in tune with changing needs and desires. Classic design and traditional craftsmanship, for the way we live now.

My grandfather, Lucian Ercolani, founded ercol in 1920. As we embark on our second century, our company - still proudly family-owned and managed - remains true to his fundamental principles of design, craftsmanship, innovation and excellence.

At the heart of everything we do are our people and our factory - a modern, highly sustainable facility deep in the English countryside. Here, the latest technology goes hand-in-glove with the traditional skills of our craftsmen and women, in pursuit of my grandfather's objectives of good design, fit for purpose and for production efficiency. To ensure breadth of choice for you, our customers, we also work closely with trusted manufacturing partners elsewhere in the world.

All ercol furniture is created by our brilliant in-house team, in collaboration with some of the most exciting emerging talents in British and International design. And behind every piece and collection is the same clear intention: to bring unique and lasting beauty, comfort and practicality to every room in your home.

Edward Tadros, Chairman.

This is your home.
Where everything is just as you want it.
Comfortable. Familiar.
Personal. Like nowhere else, and the place you love best in the world.

Windsor

Windsor has been in continuous production since its creation by our founder, Lucian Ercolani, in the 1950s. A genuine design classic, made in solid ash, its simple, elegant outlines and signature handles remain as fresh and appealing as ever.

Windsor dining chairs, large extending dining table and cabinet.

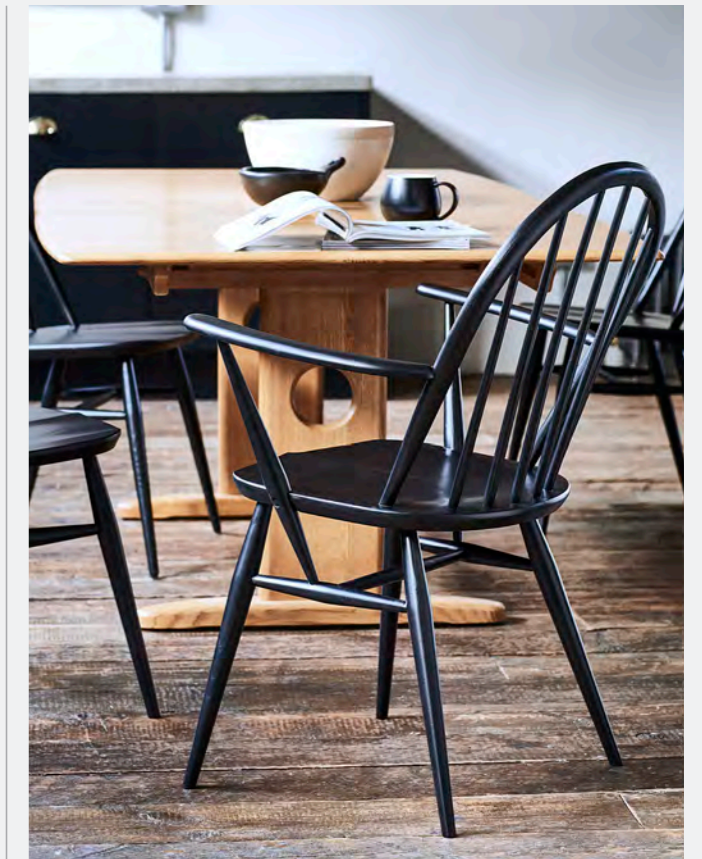

Combining modern CNC machining with traditional steam bending and hand finishing is what makes the 1877 Windsor chair unique.

The Windsor range was launched at The Furniture Exhibition at Earl's Court in 1950 and has been in continuous production ever since.

The Windsor chair has established itself as a signature ercol piece, and a genuine classic of mid-20th Century furniture design.

Created by our founder, Lucian Ercolani, the Windsor chair has undergone subtle changes over the years. Most notably, it's now made entirely in solid ash, whereas early models had an elm seat, with the other parts made from beech. But even today, as product number 1877, it retains the essential appearance and construction techniques of Lucian's original.

The Windsor chair comprises 15 components, all individually crafted and assembled by hand. The distinctive bow back is steam-bent from a single ash rail, and holds six slim spindles turned from the same timber. (The only deviation from this design was a 1954 version which had five spindles.) The seat is a 'saddle' style, again sculpted from one piece of ash, that's comfortable and supportive with or without a cushion pad.

A defining feature of the Windsor chair is the traditional wedge joints used to attach the legs. The leg comes through the seat and is fixed with an ash wedge inserted into a notch, then glued in place; there are no screws or nails. The ends of the leg and wedge are then cut off and hand-sanded flush with the seat to create a smooth, secure joint, with the neat round top of each leg visible from above. As one ercol brochure from the 1950s rather quaintly put it: "This cunning construction enables it to withstand the roughest treatment and come up smiling."

The legs are slim, elegant and gently splayed, providing strength while retaining a sense of lightness, and braced using a framework made up of three turned pieces, just as they have been on every Windsor chair ever made.

Today, the Windsor chair is made of ash and comes in a selection of stains and paint colours. Timeless, instantly recognisable and easy to live with, it's a true masterpiece of design and craftsmanship.

Romana

Romana's smooth, organic lines and deceptively understated design belie a wealth of complexity. Recalling our designs of the mid 20th Century, it's crafted in light oak, with sculpted curves, flush surfaces and soft-close drawers and doors.

How we choose and live with furniture is changing: we're looking to put our own signature on our homes, moving away from buying 'sets' to finding individual pieces that resonate. Instead of having everything matching, we're joyfully mixing up textures, styles and finishes to create layered, flexible spaces full of character and personality.

We're also seeing a blurring in how we use our living spaces. They're becoming multifunctional places for socialising, activity, and relaxation – and they're also increasingly multigenerational. Both these trends have been accelerated by the pandemic. For many of us, home has become a workplace. But it's also provided a sanctuary; somewhere to escape the uncertainty, unwind, recharge and embrace everyday domestic life.

These practical and cultural changes are reflected in our evolving ercol ranges. Design remains at the heart of everything we do; we're also focusing ever more closely on colours, materials, functionality and opportunities for personalisation.

For example, our accent chairs are perfect pieces for curling up with a book, or to contrast with a sofa in a rich bold fabric. Our bedroom ranges evoke calm with their light, refined details.

That growing search for refuge and mindfulness is behind a move towards soft materials such as curtains, carpets and rugs accented with warm, rich colour palettes inspired by the earth – terracotta, ochre and dusty pinks. Our velvet and bouclé's fabrics in leafy greens and Ochres and neutrals, together with our sustainable materials and processes, tap into a wider awareness of, and connection with the natural world.

'The most important trend we're seeing is a deeper appreciation of the true value of design and craftsmanship.'

Rachel Galbraith, ercol Creative Director.

The most important trend we're seeing is a deeper appreciation of the true value of design and craftsmanship. Consumers want more than just a piece of furniture; they're looking for something with an authentic narrative they can make part of their own story. In every piece of ercol furniture, there are things to discover: inspiration, heritage, materials, tools, craft skills. It's how we bring these together that makes our products unique and special.

And while the world is changing, and we change with it, that truth remains constant.

Cosenza

With its elegantly shaped solid-oak legs, Cosenza is unmistakably ercol. Deep buttons in the back cushions and retro-inspired upholstery from our Edit fabric range give this collection its own distinctive identity.

Aldbury chair, Cosenza large sofa, Monza coffee table, Amalfi sideboard and Marino chair.

Noto

Our Noto recliner combines our traditional exposed wood with contemporary tailored leather or fabric to beautiful effect. Its clean, elegant silhouette perfectly complements other ercol furniture collections, and makes it suitable for any setting.

Our company was founded by Lucian R Ercolani, whose vision and approach to design still exert enormous influence as we embark on our second century.

Born in 1888 in Tuscany, Lucian, the son of a picture-frame maker, came to London as a child, and studied drawing, design and furniture-making at night-school in Shoreditch. As a young man, he moved to High Wycombe, then the 'furniture capital of England', where he worked alongside some of the era's leading designers and manufacturers, before branching out on his own in 1920.

Lucian was a pioneering designer, and placed design at the heart of everything he did and produced. In the early 1950s, he launched a range of affordable, honest and functional furniture with beautiful, distinctive outlines and subtle details that would become a household name. But he was equally committed to people and the traditional skills of hand craftsmanship – values we still uphold today.

Lucian believed that when he founded the company, he was also establishing a dynasty. That vision has been realised through his grandson, Edward Tadros, who started working for the business in 1973 and has served as our Chairman since 1994. Sharing his grandfather's passion for design and manufacturing processes, Edward was instrumental in developing and building our award-winning factory in Princes Risborough.

Top right: ercol founder, Lucian Ercolani. Below: Lucian Ercolani, affectionately known as "The Old Man" and his two sons, Lucian B and Barry, 1945.

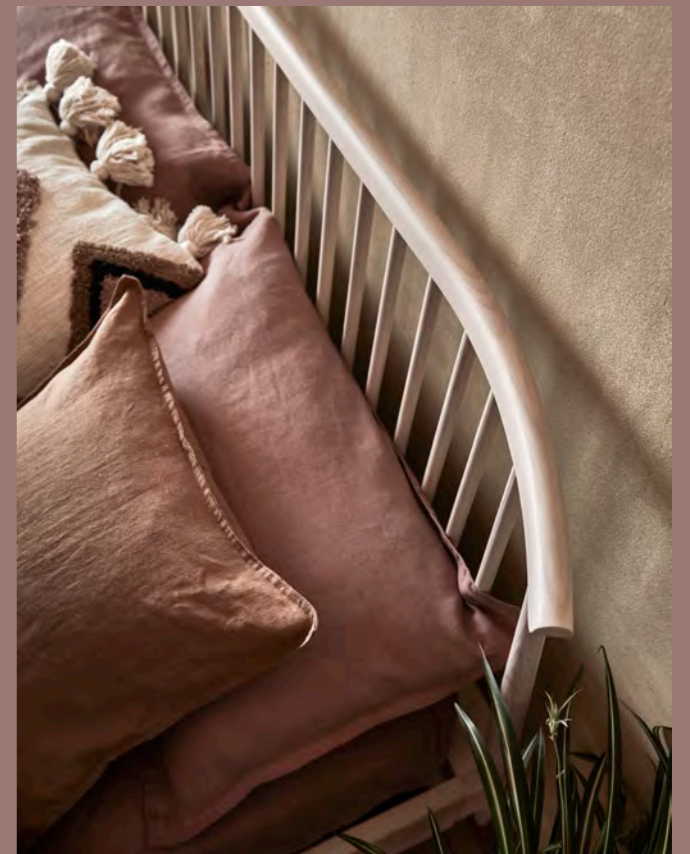

More recently, the fourth generation of the family joined the company, when Edward's son, Henry, took up the role of Director of International Business; he also heads up our L.Ercolani brand. That continuity is part of what makes ercol so special – particularly since it's so rare for a company to remain in the same family for four generations. Indeed, research has shown that only 30% of businesses are passed down to the founder's children intact; and just 3% ever employ their great-grandchildren. And while ercol has won numerous awards and delighted customers across the world, we suspect this achievement would make Lucian proudest of all.

Information Guide

In the following pages, you'll find product specifications including wood finishes, dimensions and any other important information relevant to your chosen collection.

Wood finishes and colours

We work with solid ash, oak and tulipwood, and some wood veneers and composites where technically required, each carefully purchased from responsibly harvested sources complying with the European and UK Timber Regulations. We prioritise wood from FSC managed forests where possible, and conduct periodic testing across our supply chains to ensure materials are of declared origin and species.

Our furniture is finished with a wood stain, the options for which are shown right and on relevant product specification pages, before a coat of lacquer is applied to protect the furniture. Please note that our Clear Matt (CM) finish seals and protects the furniture. As a result, it does not blend or conceal any of the natural variations within the timber. It will show the wood colour and grain off to its full, natural beauty.

Timbers can also vary from range to range. To see the exact colour and finish of the wood, order a sample by visiting ercol.com.

For safety reasons, all cabinets over 60cm in height should be secured to a wall to ensure stability. For this reason furniture will have holes or fixings on the back.

Fabric ranges

We have a wide range of fabrics for our sofas and chairs. Fabrics to suit the furniture designs have been carefully selected and the names of the fabric collections are shown on the specification pages - Ercol, Edit, Natura, Paloma and Dining. To view these on the furniture visit ercol.com

Sofas are measured to maximum dimensions, but due to the manufacturing process, these can vary slightly.

We offer a re-cover service on some show wood frame ranges. You can order genuine ercol replacement cushions to extend the life of your furniture. The ranges available for this service are listed in our ReCover guide or at ercol.com/recover
